Handwriting Without Tears: Get Set for School Language and Literacy domain only; Must be used as part of a bundle.	$22.95 for the Teacher Guide. Free online assessments after creating a free account- Can be found at http://www.hwtears.com/gss/prek-assessment Price as of 2/13/19		X	Get Set for School® Pre-K readiness assessments are free, easy to administer screeners that help you identify what your children know and can do, and easily share information with families and other educators. Each assessment takes just 10-15 minutes. Assessing young children should be observational and holistic, impacting your hands-on instructional time as little as possible. We recommend screening your children 3 times a year: at the beginning, middle and end of their Pre-K year. Pre-K teachers, therapists and parents can use the Get Set for School Pre-K Assessments. The assessments are universal, and developmentally appropriate for children ages 4-5. Handwriting Without Tears. (2015). Check Pre-K readiness with our free assessments. Through a rigorous process, the new assessments were constructed using Item Response Theory – a modern approach to test design. As opposed to Classical Test Theory, Item Response Theory assumes an “ability” that is invariant in characteristics across individuals and time. In short, the revised literacy measures offer a highly precise method of locating an individual on an ability-based scale aligned with important instructional decisions. As part of a multi-tiered model in early childhood, the Early Literacy IGDIs were developed to inform decisions about whether children are demonstrating adequate levels of performance given the general level of instruction (Tier 1), or if their performance indicates a need for more intense levels of instruction (Tier 2 or Tier 3).
